

Imagine me a shark...

...a baby Great White,
If you mess with me, I get my dad for the fight.
At times I get bullied, if you know how that feels,
I like to eat small fish, I'm supposed to eat seals.

My reputation's awful, so let's just not pretend.
Yet dogs bite more than me and yet you call them friend.
You can see me off shore, I prefer night to day,
While my parents are hunting, I like to play.

Someday I'll grow up to be the biggest shark of all,
But I'll always remember what it's like to be small.
I protect those in need if a bully I see,
A baby Great White—who wants to be me?
